Glendale, April 1, 1908.

Hon. Board of Trustees:

Gentlemen: I hereby request that your award of contract to me for building a firehouse for the City of Glendale be cancelled and that my check accompanying my bid be returned to me.

My reason for making this request is that I have been creditably informed that litigation has been threatened against the City of Glendale and myself to prevent the erection of said building and payment for same out of the fire bond funds, and I have been advised by my attorney that in case such litigation should be successful, I would be without recourse against the city to recover payment for my work. I do not wish to take any financial risk in connection with the matter, and therefore request to be released as above stated.

Very respectfully,
A. H. ANDERSON.

On motion the request was granted and the clerk instructed to return Mr. Anderson's check. The city clerk presented the following report:

WATER COMPANY MEETINGS.

The Verdugo Pipe and Reservoir company meets Monday evening next at its pumping plant, Verdugo Road and Second street. Both meetings are for the election of officers for the coming year and should be attended by all who are interested.

CONCERNING THE VERDUGO ROAD ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

As will be seen by the handbills that have been distributed the railroad committee has issued a call for a mass meeting to be held this evening at the City Hall. It is thought that at this meeting such progress will be reported or such action taken as will settle definitely the question as to whether this road will be built or not. The project has hung fire so long that the majority of the property owners directly interested are ready to drop this project if not positively settled by this evening and turn their efforts in another direction.

The following letters explain themselves:

Glendale, Cal., March 17, 1908.

Mr. H. E. Huntington, 25 Broad st.,
New York City.

Dear Sir: We the undersigned committee have been working with your chief engineer, Mr. Kuhrts, for two years endeavoring to have an extension of your Eagle Rock line from where it crosses Verdugo Road to the City of Glendale. We have secured a private right of way for your company, the deeds of which are now in our possession. We have subscribed six thousand five hundred dollars here in Glendale, the greater part of which amount has been placed in escrow with the Bank of Glendale and the other will be paid whenever we receive the assurance from your company that you have accepted Mr. Hawes's proposition.

Mr. Howard Huntington, your general manager, signed an agreement to build the road for seventeen thousand five hundred dollars and a private right of way. Messrs. Hawes and Peyton agreed to pay eleven thousand dollars, but when they signed the enclosed agreement they asked for 30-ride commutation family ticket for two dollars and fifty cents, which is the same rate given by the Interurban road to Tropico. Your general manager and Mr. Kuhrts agreed to all the conditions named in the enclosed agreement except as to the 30-ride ticket—this they asked us to refer to you. Our people are becoming impatient and have notified us as their committee that unless the matter is settled this month they will take their money and deeds out of escrow; and should they do this it would be impossible to again secure a private right of way. Remember, we have the right of way and six thousand five hundred dollars to add to Mr. Hawes' eleven thousand.

Please inform us by wire whether you will accept Mr. Hawes' and Peyton's proposition or not; if you can, we can immediately make all else satisfactory.

Yours most respectfully,
E. D. GOODE,
R. A. BLACKBURN,
Committee.

New York, March 24th, 1908.

E. D. Goode and R. A. Blackburn,
Committee.

My Dear Sirs: Your letter of 17th received. The matter about which you write is entirely in the hands of our people in Los Angeles; but it is directly against our rules and principles of business to make any agreement as to rates of fare, and we cannot do it. Of course, if you wish to draw down the subsidy I have nothing to say against it; for if we should build the road it would be a long time before we should even make operating expenses. This is a matter you will have to decide with our people in California.

Yours truly,
H. E. HUNTINGTON.

Editor News:

Immediately after receiving Mr. Huntington's letter, we called on Mr. Hawes and assured him that unless he signed up in a manner satisfactory to the railway company at once the whole proposition as far as coming through his property was concerned, would be at an end. He promised to confer with the general manager and Mr. Kuhrts at once, and said he would modify his demands and that there was little doubt concerning making all satisfactory. We realize that the waiting for the consummation of this enterprise has tried the patience of all who are interested, but I am sure the committee has had all the worst of it in this respect, and I hope all will realize that there is a vast difference between securing a railroad and going into the market and buying a new wagon or an automobile; for in the railroad proposition there are many different kinds of people to consult and they are not all progressive, but I believe none are so foolish or pessimistic as to believe that all the fine territory lying between Glendale avenue and Eagle Rock will much longer be left without railway facilities. I was one of the committee who secured rights of way and a bonus for our present electric line, and it required more than two years' time to bring that proposition to a successful termination, and the committee then, as now, had to labor long and earnestly with those who should assist, but who keep up the old howl of "you can't do it." I say WE CAN and we WILL. Like everything else there is more than one way to build a railroad, and if Mr. Hawes does not make the necessary arrangements before Saturday evening, April 4th, he knows that he will be left out of the proposition as far as a road to this place is concerned, but if he makes good, as we have every reason to believe he will, then it will behoove every resident of our rapidly growing city to unite in closing up all details at this end of the line, and within two weeks from that time construction work will be commenced.

GLENDALE, CAL., APRIL 4, 1908

A farmer in an Eastern state by reading a newspaper two years old, found an advertisement for himself which led to his receiving a fortune. There is a moral concealed hereabouts but we have not time to pick it out. However it is not necessary that all newspapers should be two years old before they are fit to read, some of them are quite readable when fresh.

They have been having a warm time at Stanford university and some bumptious students have been threatening to withdraw from the institution, but at last accounts have concluded not to do so. The authorities very properly issued an edict prohibiting the use of liquor within the University precincts, and the youngsters gave proof of the fact that they have arrived at the years of discretion, by being offensively indiscreet.

Huntington and Harriman

For several weeks past there have been disquieting and persistent rumors in circulation to the effect that Mr. H. E. Huntington had sold out all of his interests in Southern California electric railroads to Mr. Harriman. Last Sunday's Examiner gave the full details of the alleged deal, showing just the percentage of interest so transferred and indicating very clearly that Mr. Harriman has now complete control of all these great properties. On Monday last, however, Mr. Huntington telegraphed a Los Angeles paper in reply to the question as to whether it was true that he had disposed of his interests in these lines, saying that "there is not a particle of truth in the statement."

The people of Southern California are to be congratulated upon the fact that Mr. Huntington will retain his interest in these great properties which he has created. He has given Los Angeles and vicinity an electric railway system more complete and nearer perfection than is possessed by any other section of the United States; and the people who enjoy its benefits, sincerely desire that he shall continue to control the property in which he has always taken a proper pride.

Saloon Licenses in Glendale Precinct

We do not believe, as we have said upon other occasions, particularly in reference to a local affair which has now passed into history, that it is the sole function of a public official, to do just what his constituents desire. It is to be presumed that in his capacity as a public representative he has sources of information which are not available to the general public, and his judgment, being founded upon special knowledge is more likely to be nearer infallible than that of the average citizen, altho the latter may possess intelligence equal to his own. But notwithstanding this fact, we cannot comprehend the working of the mind of a man in the position of a supervisor of this county, who can even seriously contemplate doing the thing which his coutituents by a very pronounced majority given at the polls have expressed themselves as seriously objecting to.

After having voted by a majority of two to one, to exclude the saloon from Glendale precinct, (now Glendale and Tropico) it should not be necessary now to circulate petitions making specific objections to the granting of such licenses. The people are reasonable in construing that vote as a mandate settling the question beyond dispute until such time as their expressed opinion shall be reversed in the same manner as it was expressed. We cannot believe that the Board of Supervisors will grant the licenses applied for in this or the other precincts that voted to go "Dry."

A Dissertation on Brain Leaks

This is a new disease of local character which fortunately has not as yet spread to any considerable extent outside of this community. The state board of health co-operating with a special officer of the United States government is relied upon to keep it in check by proper sanitary precautions and a strict quarantine which, under the circumstances, will not be difficult to enforce as the outbreak is confined to such a limited area and is in evidence only in one particular medium, where the baccili of the disease is happily as yet known to exist.

One encouraging feature of the case is the fact that the leaks show signs of constantly decreasing vitality which indicate that the gray matter has been exhausted and the source of supply deplenished go greatly that it is probable that the output will hereafter be only sporadic, altho for the present the quality is as deadly as in the first stages of the disease.

The most noticeable symptom of the affliction is the swelled head, the patient finding great difficulty in wearing any ordinary head gear. This is followed by a species of obsession which leads the victim to imagine vain things. He is apt to think that he is possessed by the spirit of criticism which inspires him to think thoughts that are beyond ordinary imagining. About the same time, or possibly within a week afterwards, he breaks out in print. This is the culmination of the attack for that period, but the microbes accumulate again until about the end of the seventh day another outbreak occurs.

Aside from the advisability of keeping at a distance from the medium of the outbreak, it would be well to fumigate things that may unhappily come in contact with it. Doing this and maintaining control over one's reasoning powers when the output of this unfortunate intellect appears will go far towards preventing the spread of Brainisimus Leakoutimus among our community. Meanwhile it is to be hoped that the one serious case thus far reported is not incurable and that the owner of the once brilliant intellect that has been so unfortunately overclouded will yield gracefully to the heroic treatment which alone can restore him to his former proud position.

The Coming Municipal Election

The effort of our friends who do not agree with us as to the choice of trustees to be elected at the polls on April 13th, to make it appear that none of the old board should be re-elected on account of alleged misuse of the fire-bond money, is made to appear very inconsistent when it is noted with what unanimity they support Mr. Parcher. This gentleman has agreed entirely with his confreres in the matter of the fire-bond fund. If Messrs. Anderson and Watson are to be defeated because of their action in this matter, why should Mr. Parcher be elected? In view of this inconsistency on the part of those who want to put no old members on the new board, except Mr. Parcher, it is very apparent that this alleged argument is not intended to be taken seriously and is not the real cause of objections to Messrs. Anderson and Watson.

We repeat again that the ticket put up in opposition to the one chosen at the Odd Fellows' Hall meeting, is intended to represent especially the western and southwestern portion of the city. The plea made in the last issue of our contemporary that Messrs. Parcher and Brigham "represent the southeast part of Glendale," appears very ridiculous in view of the fact that these gentlemen both reside in the southwest corner, one within half a block of the city line and both within three blocks of the westerly boundary, while the easterly limits of the city are a mile distant.

Any one of these gentlemen will make an acceptable representative of his section and doubtless be acceptable to the people at large, but we fail to see the advantage to be derived by the city from taking a majority of the board from the same neighborhood. Their talents may be transcendant, and the rest of the city be without the particular brand of statesmanship which these strenuous times demand, but the lop-sidedness of the southwest corner does not appeal to us as being worthy of serious encouragement.

* * * *

The effort being made to defeat Mr. Watson for re-election as trustee is a mistaken one and has no good reason to support it. He is one of the most useful members of the board and his place will be hard to fill. He has dealt with all questions coming before the trustees for consideration in a spirit of fairness and with a proper readiness to subordinate his own ideas to those of his associates whenever they were able to meet his objections by arguments of weight. His position on the liquor ordinance was a consistent one, but was not urged upon his colleagues in a spirit of obstructiveness or fanaticism. Should he be defeated it will be a distinct loss to the community.

Smith-Lamb

On Wednesday evening, March 25th, a very quiet wedding took place in the little Norwegian church at Tenth street and Denver avenue, Los Angeles, when Karen Smith of Los Angeles, and Ernest Lamb of Eagle Rock, were married by Rev. Mr. Smelland. The church had been prettily decorated by her friends, and as the happy couple turned from the altar to receive the congratulations of the few who were present, a cablegram was handed them from her father which read:

SOGNDAL I DALENE, NORWAY.
"Accept best congratulations."
SMITHS.

They will live in Eagle Rock.

The Hollywood Woman's Club in conjunction with the Hollywood Club, composed of leading men of that place, is planning a brilliant flower festival for Hollywood to be held April 30, May 1 and 2. The flower show will include exhibits from every part of the Cahuenga valley, and the schools will participate in the show, which will conclude with a grand ball. The Editorial Association of Southern California will be entertained by Hollywood at that time.

The Case of Dr. J. T. Stewart

Having alluded some weeks ago to a verdict against Dr. Stewart on a claim that he performed an unnecessary surgical operation, it gives us pleasure to note that the Judge before whom the case was tried, has set aside the decision of the jury as being contrary to the evidence adduced. The testimony of physicians of such high standing as Drs. Bryan, Cole, McGowan and others was to the effect that the operation was necessary and was skillfully performed.

The concert given by the Occidental College Gun Club at the Masonic Hall on Wednesday evening was a success in all but the attendance. The work of the whole club was most excellent, the voices coalescing so thoroughly that no individual was prominent, producing that quality of harmony that is found nowhere save in well-trained male chorus. Mr. Thomson gave great satisfaction by his masterly handling of the violin, and Mr. McKenney showed excellent voice in the "Song the Anvil Sings," and charmed the audience in the pathetic little encore.

The quartet was not quite at the best in the plantation melodies, probably from a lack of practice.

It is to be hoped that we may have the Occidentals with us again and show them the kind of an audience that really represents Glendale.

The long-planned supper given on Saturday by the ladies of the Methodist-Episcopal church, like the "Boss" in "A Soul Above Buttons," made a "hit," and of the fillin' kind. Hungry Glendalians poured into the Odd Fellows' Hall from five until eight o'clock, leaving forty-five dollars in the hands of the door custodian for the hard-worked committees to rest their eyes upon.

Credit is largely due Madame Moyse, Mrs. M. E. Brown, Mrs. Randolph, Mrs. Phoebe Varney, and Mrs. Snow who started the project and ably engineered it to a financial success. Among the busy workers, aside from these solicitors, were the table committee: Mrs. C. E. Russell, chairman; Mrs. Emma Burket, Mrs. Ed. Lee, Mrs. George Ward, Mrs. McGilles, Mrs. Robert A. Blackburn, Mrs. Joseph Shropshire. The tea and coffee ladies, Mrs. P. J. Ferguson and Mrs. Mary Grant; the bevy of waitresses, comprising Mrs. R. I. Remsburg, Mrs. J. Andrews, Mrs. Josephine Byrkit, Mrs. Henry P. Smith and Mrs. Edwards.

Decorations were beautifully composed of smilax, red geraniums and lilies, and the menu of the kind that made an Oliver Twist of each guest, for without one single exception, little or big, young or old, they all "asked for more"—and got it!

Those in charge of the enterprise wish to thank all who so generously and willingly gave their aid.

At the meeting of the Federated Brotherhoods at the M. E. Church on Tuesday evening, important steps were taken looking to the formation of a Young Peoples' Christian Association.

The Federation has been working to this end for some time. Now the time seems ripe for active measures. It is not the desire of the Brotherhoods to exclude the public from the assistance that we know it will desire to render to so important a work. The question has been how to enlist the fullest co-operation consistent with the purpose expressed in the name of the association.

It was decided to seek among the citizens of Glendale and vicinity those who are interested to the extent of an initial subscription of five dollars ($5) or more that these might become a body of electors to choose the trustees that shall take out papers of incorporation and secure funds necessary to the carrying out of this plan.

It was decided to delay all discussion as to site for the present, leaving this matter to be decided by the board of trust when constituted.

It is probably not in the least necessary to say anything to arouse the people of Glendale as to the need and desirability of such an association. If we can judge by the unanimity of the discussion at this meeting there is but one opinion in this regard. It remains for every one to seek the best interests of the young people of the valley and refrain from any selfish thought and speech in the matter.

There have been offered two parcels of ground for the enterprise already, either of which is excellent for the purpose. It may be that better will be available before the matter comes to decision.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

There is a veritable building boom on in Glendale. One of our local yards sold bills for six houses in one day this week. The low price of lumber is, no doubt, responsible for some of this activity, but the most of it is due to the fact that Glendale is becoming more popular day by day among the home seekers.

In a number of instances that we have noted, people who have been attracted to other sections by the low price of land, have, after a few months' experience, returned to Glendale, satisfied that no other section exceeds and but few equal it in all that is considered desirable by the average home builder.

Prices for real estate continue steady and in only one or two of recent transactions has anything been sold simply because it was a bargain.

A number of projects are "in the air," but it is not our policy to enumerate them until they materialize.

Among the buildings started during the last ten days, may be mentioned the following:

A residence near Casa Verdugo by M. J. Mellin, to cost about $2500.

P. V. Tuttle, Fourth street off Central avenue, to cost $2500.

Miss R. M. Sherer, Fourth street near Adams, story and a half modern cottage, cost $1800.

Mr. Wardner, Fifth street between Louise and Mary, a five-room cottage, cost about $1500.

Mr. Richman, Ninth street, cost about $1500.

Mr. Cave, Fifth near Central, estimated cost $700.

Mr. Hughes, near the dairy on Louise street, $1000.

T. H. Addison, B street, $2000.

The Ganahl Lumber company reports the business done in March to be a record-breaker; having sold 25,000 feet more lumber than during the same month a year ago, being a total of a quarter of a million feet. April starts in with several sales which promise to swell the figures of this month to unprecedented proportions.

THE STUDIO TEA.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club is conducting a series of very popular Fifth Tuesday Teas for the purpose of raising money to be used in the purchase of new books for our free library, and the studio tea given Tuesday by Mrs. Dr. Robert A. Blackburn and Miss Mary Blackburn proved the interest that is growing for the fund.

The affair was perhaps the most unique event of the season and attracted many visitors from two until five. A studio interior had been faithfully copied, and the result proved a delight to the many guests.

Gems of the orient, rare brasses, excellent specimens of ceramic art, were accessories to the display of paintings grouped in proper classes and with reference to light needed for each picture. The walls had been covered with green burlap, which made a fine background for the various colors and tints used in the artistic portrayal of nature. White iris, the only flower used, was grouped in such a way as to complete the whole artistic scheme.

The art work exhibited comprised the work of Miss Mary Blackburn, a local artist of pronounced ability. From her hand were studies in oil and water colors, landscapes and flower pieces, some fine miniatures and exceptionally good china painting. Part of the exhibit showed the work of pupils in the artist's Pasadena classes, and of Miss Beth Byrkit and Miss Berenice Williams of Glendale. The little mite basket near the door was found to contain nearly ten dollars at the close of the charming afternoon.

JUSTICE MELROSE HOLDS COURT IN GLENDALE.

Monday last was "Court" day in Glendale, Justice Melrose of Tropico holding court in the skating rink. The case was that of Funkhauser vs. Fuller, the plaintiff suing to recover a horse which it was claimed Mr. Fuller had feloniously or otherwise concealed about his person when he ought to have carried it promptly to the plaintiff, the lawful owner. A wholesale levy for jury purposes was made upon the substantial citizens of the town, which almost depleted the business establishments in the neighborhood of Glendale avenue. Mr. Wellman of Los Angeles appeared for the plaintiff and L. G. Susemihl, Esq., of Glendale, for the defendant.

The selection of a jury took up considerable time, each of the attorneys exercising to the limit his rights to peremptory challenge and seven or eight of the substantial citizens were turned loose because their complexion, the cut of their clothes or their varying degrees of superior intelligence debarred them from being eligible as ideal jurors. Twelve good men were finally selected and after rolling up their sleeves and corrugating their eyebrows, bent themselves to the task of meting out justice. It seems that the horse of plaintiff had wandered during a spell of equine aberration, into the classic shades along Kenneth Road in North Glendale. Liking the accommodations there, he tarried for several days, wandering fancy-free among the orchards that back up against the mountain side; and showing his heels impartially to all pursuers.

In a Sunday paper appeared an advertisement of "Horse Lost," a reward of $25.00 being offered for its return. Spurred on by hope of legitimate booty, the citizens of Kenneth Road and vicinity took up the chase in earnest and the animal was at last surrounded and ignominously captured by Mr. Fuller. He telephoned to the owner who duly appeared and was presented with the horse conditionally upon the payment of $27.00 or thereabouts, for the reward, and the wear and tear of the chase. This the owner refused to pay, took legal advice, replevied the animal and sued for possession. The defense put in a counter claim for the $27.00. It was a very nice case and the witnesses on both sides did their best to tell straight stories, with fair success. The plaintiff claims or intimated that the defendant had the horse up his sleeve all the time, Mr. Fuller and his witnesses indignantly denying the insinuation. After much testimony the evidence closed and the lawyers exuded eloquence for awhile. Then the case went to the jury, every man of whom expressed on his countenance a grim determination to do justice though the heavens fall and incidentally to earn that two dollars per. And they did. After a half hour's deliberation they brought in a verdict awarding the plaintiff the horse saddled with the costs and twenty-seven dollars reward to be paid the defendant. It is said that owing to the fact that the plaintiff technically won, (being awarded the horse) he could not legally be burdened with the costs, hence there is a probability that the appeal which has been taken will upset the verdict of our Glendale jurymen.

A BANKRUPT CITY.

Neighboring City Spends Too Much Money and Is Now Worried.

The prospect of bankruptcy is the awful problem staring Ocean Park in the face. From July 1 to Dec. 1, it is said, Ocean Park will be practically without a dollar to meet the heavy expenses accruing during the summer rush at the beach town.

It is claimed that a payment in excess of $13,000 has been made greater than the entire income fund of the town and nearly four months of the fiscal year are yet unexpired.

The average monthly expense of conducting the city government is about $5338, and a statement shows that the entire balance on hand in the city treasury, February 18th, was $10,590.41. It will be seen that in two months' time the funds in the treasury will be used for current expenses of the town. The fiscal year commences July 1 and aside from the license money which amounts to very little, there is no income obtainable for the town until the payment of fall taxes.

Those in charge of the city finances are now figuring how to cover the expenses of lighting, police protection, street work and so forth, for the coming summer, with a depleted treasury. —Redondo Reflex.

SCIENCE NOTES.

Cosmic Evolution.

We know in a general way that the stars are going through a process of cooling and contraction which has been in operation for untold ages. This conclusion, however, belongs more to the domain of speculative science than to exact knowledge, no star having been under observation long enough for any change in its condition to become apparent. Spectroscopic examination of stellar light exhibits such great diversity of density, temperature and motion, that no two of them are in the same state at the present time. In logical order any account of the stars should begin with the Nebulae from which, according to the celebrated hypothesis of Laplace and Herschell, all forms of matter with which we are acquainted has been evolved. Only two of these mysterious objects are visible to the naked eye: the one in constellation of Orion, and that in the constellation of Andromeda; but they are scattered by thousands over the vault of heaven, and a very large number are visible in a moderate-sized telescope. They exhibit not only the same astonishing diversity of temperature, density and motion seen in the stars, but also great variety of figure, the general form, however, being spiral.

Sir Wm. Herschell arranged a catalogue of those Nebulae known to him in such a manner as to suggest a gradual evolution of nebulae into stars. There is first the faintest diffused nebulosity that can be detected by the telescope; tnen nebulae in which a nucleus can be barely discerned; others in which a nucleus is easily seen; again, those in which the nucleus is a bright star-like point. Further on in the scale are nebulous stars, merging by almost imperceptible gradations into star-clusters, and groups of triple and double stars. A comprehensive survey of this remarkable arrangement forces a conviction that the diversity manifested corresponds to different stages of development in what may be called Cosmic Evolution.

Until about the middle of the last century Nebulae were supposed to be clusters of stars too distant to reveal separate points of light, and with the erection of each new telescope of higher power the test of its working was supposed to be its ability to "resolve" the Nebulae into stars. Many were so disintegrated, but the great majority wholly refused to be defined. It was still thought, however, that with yet higher powers they would all reveal themselves as clusters of stars. It was only on the advent of the spectroscope that the question was definitely settled. We know now, with certainty, which are aggregations of stars, and which are true nebulae. The latter are found to be vast regions of glowing gas,—generally hydrogen,— of extreme tenuity, perhaps, thousands of times the dimensions of the whole solar system. All are going through a progressive change—cooling off and contracting into smaller volume. Professor Newcomb says "We must think of the universe of stars as of a clock that is running down. As we can see by the eye of reason that the weight of the clock was higher yesterday than it is today, so we can compute that the stars must have been larger in former times, and that there must have been some finite and computable period when they were all nebulae." To extend the illustration in the opposite direction, it is also inferred that as we can see that a time will come when the weight will reach the bottom, and the clock will stop unless it is wound up again, so we must conclude that the stars will finally reach a stage when they will roll through space cold, solid and dark, unless they are revivified by some external agency.

In its beginning a star is simply a nebulous mass, which gradually cools and contracts. The order of development is mainly distinguished by color and peculiarities of spectra. The first stage is bluish-white, gradually passing through white to yellow and red.

Among the stars exhibiting three well-marked successive stages of evolution Sir William Huggins mentions the following:

1. Sirius, Riegel and the chief star in each of the constellations of the Great Bear, Virgin, Eagle and Swan. These are all bluish-white stars, and are all presumed to be still in their vigorous youth.

2. Capella, and our own sun, yellow stars, at present passing through their middle age.

3. Arcturus, Aldebaran and Alpha Orionis, red stars which have already arrived at old age, and have so far cooled that in the next stage of their evolution they will entirely cease to be luminous.

These stages are well illustrated on a small scale, by a mass of highly heated metal, such as iron, which when in a molten state, is bluish-white, gradually changing as it cools to yellow and red, finally becoming dull and dark. This latter stage in the star's evolution finishes its history as a luminous star. Let us, in imagination, continue the history in the case of our own sun. At the present time, being mostly incandescent gas, it is losing heat by the prodigious radiation all around it, but is not as yet losing temperature. Paradoxical as this may appear, it is explained by the fact that the loss of heat is accompanied by constant contraction which maintains, or possibly increases the temperature. But this process cannct, of course, go on indefinitely. A point must eventually be reached when the contraction will result in the gaseous condition giving place to the liquid, which in rapid turn will be replaced by a solid outer shell. Our luminary will then cease to be luminous, and will not only lose heat, but temperature also; there being no further heat-engendering contraction to compensate for the loss. Beyond this stage the cooling and contraction will proceed for millions of years until the once resplendant orb rolls through space a dark, inert and lifeless mass.

The length of time occupied by all this enormous and wonderful evolution depends entirely on the mass of the original nebula, and a smaller body will run through all its stages much quicker than a larger body. We can see this in comparing the present condition of the members of the solar system. Jupiter, the giant of the family, is at present about the temperature of red-hot iron, as is seen when an occasional rift in his clouds affords us a glimpse of his surface. There is probably no water on the planet which is too hot to permit the vapour of water to assume the liquid form. This latter stage was reached in the case of the earth many thousands of years ago—perhaps hundreds of thousands—and we may suppose is referred to in the Biblical account of the creation in the first chapter of the Book of Genesis, verses 6-7-8 and 10, where the waters are said to be gathered from the firmament, descending to the earth to form rivers, seas and oceans.

There is every reason to believe that as the cooling proceeds a time comes in the history of the planet when all the water is withdrawn into its interior, and finally the air also.

Our nearest neighbor, Mars, being so much smaller than the earth, has run through its career much more rapidly than the latter, and has at this time lost most of the water from its surface.

Our satellite, smaller still, is one degree further along in its course, both water and air having long ago been withdrawn into its interior. It must, therefore, be totally devoid of life or sound.

It is a somewhat melancholy reflection to think that all creation is tending to this apparent dead level of lifeless inertia, and we may imagine a humble parallel in the case of a poor Alaskan peasant, snow-bound in his little cabin for a long time, with only a small supply of food and fuel. So long as he keeps his fire burning he can defy the outside cold. But the time comes when he burns his last stick, the icy cold creeps in and the subsequent tragic details of the picture may be left to the imagination.

As far as the human race is concerned, however, this dire catastrophe may be many hundreds of thousands of years in the future; and who shall say that the marvels of inventive genius may not divert it altogether?

The last stage of stellar evolution being death and darkness, there is every reason to believe that the dark bodies in space far out number the bright ones. From the nature of the case we cannot see them, but they manifest their presence indirectly in many ways, and are supposed to be chiefly accountable for a large class of variable stars, to be referred to in another paper.

We say this is the last stage in the mighty life-history: One form of life, however, remains to these dark orbs their motion. They still circle unseen in their appointed orbits. And in contemplating the destiny of these mysterious bodies, and reflecting at the same time, on the origin of nebulae, we are reminded that every hundred years or so, a new star makes its appearance—an enormous mass of glowing, incandescent gas—where no star was visible before. It may be that two of these dark orbs have come into collision, in the course of their wanderings, and their energy of motion has been transformed into intense heat, resulting in the complete vaporization of their constituent matter. And so a new cycle is started, to run its mighty course. Professor Lowell elegantly expresses this idea in the following words: "The epic of our solar system began with a great catastrophe. Two suns met. Fatal to what had been, the event dated a stupendous cosmic birth. It is more than likely that one or both of the colliding masses were dark bodies, dead suns, such as now circle unseen in space, amid the bright ones we call 'stars'."

The recognition of these dark stars is one of the refinements of modern astronomy, and the demonstration of their existence is a crowning achievement of the human intellect, which, though enshrined in so frail and temporary a body, can yet rise to the contemplation and comprehension of the marvellous handiwork of the infinite creative mind, from which all things proceed.

Dance at Logan's Hall, Tropico, Friday evening, April 10th. Grand march at 8:30. Good floor, good music, good partners and a good time. Admission 75 cents; extra lady 25 cents.

The Mission Study Class of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church of Tropico was entertained by Mrs. F. C. Richardson at her residence on Central avenue Monday afternoon.

J. A. Hughes, who has been in the hospital at Sawtelle, returned home the first of the week, very much improved. Owing to Mr. Hughes' advanced age, much concern was felt regarding his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Wolfe, who were visiting at Inglewood the past week, were summoned home Thursday evening owing to the sudden illness of Mrs. Riley, Mrs. Wolfe's mother. Mrs. Riley is reported as very much improved at present.

The numerous patrons of the Tropico-Glendale electric line were pleased to welcome Fred Lewis, the popular conductor of one of the Interurban cars, who returned Monday from a two weeks' visit to Denver, where Mr. Lewis was summoned by the sudden illness of Mrs. Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Richardson are enjoying a delightful pleasure jaunt along the coast. After a short visit at San Francisco they will journey to Palo Alto, where they will spend the spring vacation with their daughter, Miss Eulalia Richardson, who is a student at Stanford.

Dr. Garmon has left for a week's visit at Santa Ana where he goes to attend the reunion of the old soldiers and Woman's Relief Corps of California and Nevada, which convenes next Tuesday. During his absence his practice will be attended to by Dr. Jean I. Mackay Glidden of 738 Union avenue, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Samuel Ayres, Mrs. N. C. Burch, Mrs. D. M. Stuart, Mrs. J. D. Botts of Tropico, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Marsh and Miss Rachel Sherer of Glendale, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thomas at elaborately appointed dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas at their home in Highland Park Tuesday.

TROPICO PRESBYTERIAN NOTES.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian church was held on Thursday evening, March 26, at which time reports were heard from the various organizations of the church. A new board of trustees was elected consisting of W. A. Thompson, C. C. Ritenhouse, S. A. Ayers, W. A. Collins and Jno. Hobbs. All the work of the church appeared in a prosperous condition considering the fact that the church has been without a pastor for six months, and the way is clear for an active and aggressive work under the leadership of the new pastor, Dr. A. W. McConnell.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed on Sunday morning, March 29, at which time seven new members were received into the church, three by letter and four by confession of the faith.

A cradle roll has been started in connection with the Sunday School, under the superintendency of Mrs. A. W. McConnell. A good start was made on Sunday morning in the new adult Bible class recently organized with Mr. J. S. Gibbs as teacher.

MASQUERADE PARTY.

The ladies of N. P. Banks W. R. C. tendered a most delightful evening at G. A. R. hall Wednesday evening. Among the merry maskers were to be seen several colonial dames, Goddess of Liberty, French dolls, Teddy Bear girls, Parisian danuese, Indian squaw, yellow kid, and numerous other comical as well as artistic maskers. Gentlemen represented boys of the United States navy (just a few days in advance of Admiral Evans' fleet), boys of the British navy, typical car boys, Spanish cavaliers, Old Black Joe, clowns, and a number of "cullud genmen."

Music was furnished by Mrs. Charles Sternberg. Dainty refreshments served and a neat sum realized by the ladies, who are anxious to liquidate the indebtedness on the G. A. R. hall.

CHARMING DINNER PARTY.

Miss Lola Pratt entertained a coterie of her girl friends with a dinner dainty in all of its artistic appointments at her home on Glendale avenue Monday evening.

The dining room was brightened by a generous arrangement of red and white blossoms, the colors of the sophomore class of the Glendale Union High School of which Miss Pratt and her guests are members. Covers were laid for Miss Susie Gibbs, Miss Enid Watson, Miss Lillian Ellias, Miss Pearl Harrison, Miss Winifred Wooden, Miss Jessie Gallup, Miss Emily Ellias and Miss Luella Moore.

MRS. BANCROFT'S DINNER.

Mrs. Anna L. Bancroft gave a most charming dinner party at her home on Brand boulevard Wednesday evening, complimentary to her son, Roy Bancroft. Softly shaded lights, artistically arranged spring blossoms and trailing greenery transformed the beautiful interior of the Bancroft residence into a veritable bower of fragrance and bloom. Following the course dinner dancing and music were enjoyed by the guests, who numbered Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bancroft, Miss Sara McLean, Miss Berenice Williams, Miss Annette Cooper and Miss Jane McPeak; Messrs. J. R. Robinson, L. M. Saerbea and Worth Bancroft.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. W. A. Hough of Tropico, Mrs Council and family of Los Angeles desire to thank the friends and neighbors who so generously assisted in the last sickness and death of father and husband, the late Nelson L. Council, and for the many beautiful flowers and other evidence of friendship and sympathy, and especially to Mrs. Clyde Carmack, Mrs. John Hobbs and Mrs. Andrew Stephenson, who so kindly assisted.

DEATH OF MRS. KNOLD.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Grove Knold were on Tuesday afternoon conducted in the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Campbell, of Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. Knold came to Glendale last October, on account of the latter's poor health, and they have spent the winter here and in Pasadena, where, on Monday, she passed away. She was born on the Isle of Wright, coming to the United States when nine years of age, was married to Mr. Knold ten years ago, and for some time her home has been in North Dakota, but the climate there proving too rigorous, they decided upon a winter in Glendale.

Rev. C. R. Norton, of Cucamonga, and Rev. J. N. Burton conducted the beautiful Methodist-Episcopal service.

Mrs. Knold was a devoted Christian and a most loving and beautiful character. In her short residence here she had greatly endeared herself to many. Appropriate music was given by Mrs. Josephine Bryant and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. Fiske and Mr. Sherman. Interment was at Forest Lawn.

ANNIVERSARY PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Courtney were married in Buchanan county, Missouri, sixty years ago. They moved to Kansas in 1859 and for forty years resided near the city of Leavenworth until they came to California seven years ago. At the residence of their son, Mr. R. E. Courtney, on Ninth street, the happy occasion was fitly celebrated last Monday evening. A party of friends from East Los Angeles came out early in the evening and joined by about an equal number of nearby neighbors of the family, afforded the aged couple and shared with them the happiness of commemorating the event by three or four hours of social intercourse and congratulations.

Ed. News.

Mr. Coker was nominated by the people at the caucus held for the nomination of trustees for the City of Glendale. He was nominated for the two-year term. He was also nominated on the other ticket for the four-year term. Mr. Coker, I understand, is announcing that he is out for the four-year term, which means that he acknowledges himself as supporting the Glendale City Ticket. If Mr. Coker is working for the so-called city ticket all those who helped nominate him at the caucus naming candidates for the Citizens' Ticket are absolved from supporting Mr. Coker and are at perfect liberty to vote for Mr. Grant, it being a tenet of political honesty that no man can honorably work against the ticket on which he accepts the nomination.

A CITIZEN.

WHAT FORESTRY HAS DONE.

Many people in this country think that forestry had never been tried until the government began to practice it upon the national forests. Yet forestry is practiced by every civilized country in the world except China and Turkey. It gets results which can be got in no other way, and which are necessary to the general welfare.

Take the case of Germany. Starting with forests which were in as bad shape as many of our own which have been recklessly cut over, it raised the average yield of wood per acre from 20 cubic feet in 1830 to 65 cubic feet in 1904. During the same period of time it trebled the proportion of saw timber got from the average cut, which means, in other words, that through the practice of forestry the timberlands of Germany are of three times better quality today than when no system was used. And in fifty-four years it increased the money returns from an average acre of forest sevenfold.

In France forestry has decreased the danger from floods, which threaten to destroy vast areas of fertile farms, and in doing so has added many millions of dollars to the national wealth in new forests. It has removed the danger from sand dunes and in their place has created a property worth many millions of dollars. Applied to the State forests, which are small in comparison with the national forests of this country, it causes them to yield each year a net revenue of more than $4,700,000, though the sum spent on each acre for management is over 100 times greater than that spent on the forests of the United States.

France and Germany together have a population of 100,000,000, in round numbers, against our probable 85,000,000, and State forests of 14,500,000 acres against our 160,000,000 acres of national forests; but France and Germany spend on their forests $11,000,000 a year and get from them in net returns $30,000,000 a year, while the United States spent on the national forests last year $1,400,000 and secured a net return of less than $130,000.

In Switzerland, where every foot of agricultural land is of the greatest value, forestry has made it possible for the people to farm all land fit for crops, and so has assisted the country to support a larger population, and one that is more prosperous, than would be the case if the valleys were subjected to destructive floods. In a country as small as Switzerland, and one which contains so many high and rugged mountains, this is a service the benefits of which can not be measured in dollars. It is in Switzerland also, in the Sihlwald, that forestry demonstrates beyond contradiction how great a yield in wood and money it may bring about if applied consistently for a number of years.

NOT A QUALIFICATION.

Senator Perkins, announcing his candidacy for re-election, is careful to explain that the salary is so little his concern that he gives all of it to church uses and for charitable and benevolent purposes. We do not regard this as in the slightest degree affecting the question whether it is desirable he should be re-elected. Creditable as it is to his private character, it becomes discreditable when it is advanced in connection with an avowal of his candidacy as a reason why it should be looked upon with favor. If it is intended thereby to intimate that one able to indulge so extensively his propensities for benevolence is removed wholly from temptation, not much impression will be made upon a State that sees now in its executive chair one quite as free from the coarser forms of corruption who yet faithfully serves the Southern Pacific railroad.

We regard the reference Senator Perkins makes to the uses to which he devotes his salary as irrelevant and immaterial, and of no more consequence in determining the choice of the people than is the color of his socks.—L. A. Express.

An exchange says that, while the Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican League is making a deal of fuss about the State convention, the machine is "quietly lining things up for the legislature" and when the county conventions are held it "will pull the strings as usual." The machine is assuming that the voters are going to be as apathetic this year as they have been in previous years. If it is, there is a sudden awakening in store for it. When the machine has been ousted from State control of the party at the primary on May 5th, and delegates have been sent to the national convention who will stand both for Taft and Taft's policies, then the Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican League will get ready for the next primary and the nomination of candidates for the legislature. One primary at a time. Rout the machine on May 5th and no gum-shoe campaign can save it on August 11th.—L. A. Express.

STORY OF THREE MEN

For ten years one spent an average of five dollars per month foolishly. Number two saved five dollars per month at home where it earned no interest. Number three deposited his five dollars regularly each month in the savings bank, receiving compound interest.

Here is the result: No. 1, nothing; No. 2, $600.00; No. 3, $699.00. The difference between two and three represents the interest those savings earned —$99.

OPENING OF THE BURBANK STATE BANK.

The people of the community for the past week have been looking forward with much interest to the opening of the new bank, which took place Wednesday morning at nine o'clock promptly. Work has been pushed rapidly along on the structure and completed at the time stated. The dimensions of the building are 30x60, made of pressed brick, and plate glass windows, with a corner door facing Olive and Second. There are three rooms in the building, the directors room, the bank room and a room in the rear which will be occupied by Dr. Townsend, dentist, each room being furnished in old mission style. The vault is fireproof in which are placed fifty-one safety deposit boxes and a burglary and fireproof safe with a time lock.

Over $25,000 was deposited during the day, showing the interest the people of the community have taken in the matter. The board of directors are all local and the management will be composed of local merchants and farmers of the community. Prior to the opening of the bank large sums of money were deposited in Los Angeles, Glendale, San Fernando and Hollywood, which properly belonged to Burbank. A bank meeting was held in the directors' room Tuesday evening. The directors are H. A. Church, president; A. O. Kendall, vice president; A. E. Dufur, secretary; J. T. Shelton, J. D. Radcliffe, Geo. Luttge, Dr. C. C. Cottle, Martin Pupka, E. W. Cook, Orville Myers, H. W. Rosecup. R. O. Church is acting as cashier in the absence of Dr. C. C. Cottle, who holds that position. Hours will be 9 to 4.

Promptly at noon tables were set in the rear room of the building and luncheon was served by the wives and lady friends of the stockholders to a large number of people from all over the valley. The ladies of the valley vied with one another in their efforts to supply cake, sandwiches and punch. About two hundred assembled at the tables and none went away unsatisfied. The ladies deserve congratulations for carrying the affair through successfully.

A. J. Pillsbury, one of the best known editors and writers of the State, said in a public address in San Francisco the other night, that the Southern Pacific company through control of the State government has avoided payment of fourteen and a half millions of dollars in taxes during the past twenty years, and gave facts and figures to substantiate his statement. This shows how profitable it has been to the railroad to maintain its political machine. It has filched from the taxpayers many times over what it has cost to run that machine and control the politics of the State.
